

APPENDIX I
Marked-up Abstract

A substrate for use in a data storage system is disclosed. The substrate comprises at least one plastic composite material having a modulus of about 350 kpsi or greater. The plastic composite material may be filled with viscoelastic damping particles, anisotropic reinforcing agents, or combinations thereof.